SWOT Analysis

Infosys Limited (Infosys) is a provider of business and technology consulting, enterprise solutions, systems integration, and custom application development services. Strong and substantial financial growth, comprehensive end-to-end business solutions and partnership with major technology players are the company's major strengths, whereas concentrated operations remain cause for concern. Positive outlook for cloud computing market, positive outlook of the global IT services industry and contracts and collaborations are likely to offer growth opportunities to the company. However, competitive pressure, risks associated with currency exchange and rapid technological advancements may affect its business operations.

Partnership with major technology players

Infosys has alliances with major technology companies. The company's alliances are focused on developing solutions that incorporate Infosys intellectual property as well as the technology and services of the alliance partners. Hewlett-Packard Company, International Business Machines Corp, Microsoft Corporation, CA, Inc., Parasoft Corporation, SAP, Oracle, Micro Focus International plc, Compuware Corporation, and TestPlant Ltd are some of the company's alliance partners. Arrow Electronics Inc. is also a channel partner, and COMMIT is a strategic partner of Infosys.

Comprehensive end-to-end business solutions

Infosys provides comprehensive end-to-end business solutions that include business consulting, information technology services, software platform-based services, and business process management. Infosys' global consulting service line offers its customers core business consulting services as well as industry, domain, process, and technology expertise relevant to their businesses. Application development and maintenance, independent validation services, infrastructure management, engineering services including product engineering and life cycle solutions, and business process management are all part of the company's IT services portfolio. It also provides management consulting, enterprise solutions and package implementation, systems integration, and business intelligence and analytics. Furthermore, the company provides products, business platforms, and solutions to accelerate intellectual property-led innovation, such as Finacle, its banking product, and offerings in the areas of analytics, cloud, and digital transformation. EdgeVerve products and platforms are used by corporations in industries such as financial services, insurance, retail and CPG, life sciences, manufacturing, and telecom. The company also provides emerging technologies such as cloud computing, enterprise mobility, the internet of things (IoT), big data, and analytics. Comprehensive end-to-end business solutions enable Infosys to capture a larger share of client budgets. Furthermore, it enables the company to pursue opportunities in both new and existing markets.
